Narrative:
Calling about 10 year old Rahith who has been diagnosed with Autism. He has attended the caller's school since junior kindergarten. The concern is that the mother has refused all proposed supports for this child for special classes or resources. The caller noted he had called a couple of years ago with concerns.

The school has put in at least one or two SNA's with him at all times due to his aggression towards others. He is now destroying the classrooms he is in on a daily basis. He is throwing heavy objects. He has injured one of the SNA's who is now on medical leave. Others have been injured as well.

Yesterday he destroyed the classroom at the end of the day and the mother and grandmother were outside and the teacher wanted to show the mother what was happening. Rahith kicked his mother in the genitals and then punched her in the head. The caller stated that he has seen Rahith do the same to the grandmother. The caller stated that this was a significant assault. The mother did go into the school and saw the destruction and seemed to dismiss this behaviour. She said to Rahith, "It is ok, you can go home and wreck the home if you want." The caller is very concerned about this attitude.

The caller stated that the mother presents with very little affect.

Mother has refused any involvement with any community agencies. The mother does attend the conferences at the school but says very little. She brings various advocates who speak for her. The advocates have refused any modifications of programs and want him in a regular classroom.

The school feels academics have been severely negatively impacted because of this and the intensity of the child's behaviour is increasing. They are just trying to manage behaviour and are unable to address his academic needs.

The caller stated that Rahith has said he has been locked in the closet by the parent before at home. When asked when this occurred, the principal stated, this was 'a while ago', and could not provide additional clarification.
The mother states that she has never seen this type of negative behavior at home. The caller stated that he has seen the child violently attack the grandmother and he shakes her neck.

The caller stated that the mother has said things to the child such as, "We will call police and they will take you away" or "We'll call your father." She has been negotiating with him to give things to get what he wants.

The child has run from the mother to the community center before and the caller is concerned for his safety.

Caller feels the mother is neglecting his needs around schooling but also his needs emotionally/ behaviourally. The school has even asked the mother to take the child home during the day to take a break for him and mother refuses. The school has put in lots of resources and attempted to engage the mother is obtaining additional supports for the child but she has refused and the caller feels this is having a very negative impact.

The caller noted the basic care of the child is said to be very good- clean and well-dressed on no concerns for his daily basic care.
